This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Publisher's Note

The simplified spellings used are strongly recommended for general adoption by both the American and English Philological Associations, including nearly all the prominent scholars in English now living. The publishers regret the prejudis that certain readers will feel against these changes, but after careful study of all objections urged against them, they find the weight of scholarship and reason wholly in their favor, and feel compeld to bear a share of the prejudis which some must endure before the great benefits of a rational orthografy can be secured.

Abridged Decimal Classification[a]

EXPLANATION

Before beginning to use the classification at least the paragrafs in large type should be carefully read. Those interested will find still fuller explanation in the smaller type.

This abridgment is made in answer to a strong demand for a short form adapted to the needs of small and slowly growing libraries. They wish short class numbers, but it is a mistake to assume that they will have only works on general subjects. Even the smallest library is likely to have a few books or pamflets on the most specific topics of the omitted subheads, and as these minor subjects will differ in each library, it is obviously impossible to make any abridged classification that will meet every want. Cases will certainly arise that can be met only by the unabridged classification, which aims to include all subjects treated in books, pamflets, or articles.

(See also Relativ subject index, p. 7; Use of index, p. 13.)

Change from short to full form. These short (three-figure) forms can be changed to the full class numbers at any time without other alteration than adding extra figures to those here given.

Plan. In this classification the field of knowledge is divided in nine main classes, numberd 1 to 9. Cyclopedias, periodicals, etc. so general in character as to belong to no one of these classes, are markt 0 (naught), and form a tenth class. Each class is similarly separated into nine divisions, a The confusion and annoyance to the many users of this system caused by printing unauthorized variations have forced the publishers to insist strictly on the protection afforded by the copyright laws. Every library and individual user has, however, entire freedom to make such variations as he thinks he needs, under the simple restrictions found necessary to protect the rights of others as explaind on page 19, Letter notations for changes.

general works belonging to no division having 0 in place of the division number. Divisions are similarly divided into nine sections, and the process is repeated as often as necessary, but in this abridgment 0 is not used beyond the third figure. Thus 512 means Class 5 (Natural Science), Division 1 (Mathematics), Section 2 (Algebra), and every Algebra is numberd 512. This class number, giving class, division, section and sub-section, if any, is applied to every book and pamflet belonging to the library.

Where 0 occurs in a class number, it has its normal zero value. Thus a book numberd 510 is class 5, division 1, but no section; i. e. the book treats of division 51 (Mathematics) in general, and is limited to no one section, while geometry which is so limited is markt 513; 500 indicates a treatise on science in general, limited to no division. A naught occurring in the first place would in the same way show that the book is limited to no class; e. g. a general cyclopedia which treats of all nine classes.

The books are arranged on the shelves in simple numerical order, all class numbers being decimal. Since each subject has a definit number, all books on any subject must stand together. These tables show the order in which subjects follow one another. Thus 512 Algebra precedes 513 Geometry, and follows 511 Arithmetic.

Summaries. The first page of tables shows the 10 Classes into which all topics are divided. The next page shows the nine Divisions of each of the 10 classes, and is useful as a bird's-eye view of the whole scheme.

Tables. Following these two summaries is the abridged classification, which repeats, in proper order, all the classes, divisions, and sections, with such sub-sections as are used in this abridgment. Synonymous terms, examples, brief notes, dates, and various catch-words are often added to the simple heads for convenience of users, who thus get a fuller and clearer idea of the field which each number covers. Therefore all references to numbers should be lookt up in the tables; never in the summaries, which are really only a table of contents of the complete tables.

Choice and arrangement of heads. The selection and arrangement of heads can not be explaind in detail for want of space. In all the work, philosofic theory and accuracy have been made to yield to practical usefulness. The impossibility of making a satisfactory classification of all knowledge as preservd in books, has been appreciated from the first, and theoretic harmony and exactness have been repeatedly sacrificed to practical requirements.

Sequence of allied subjects. Wherever practicable, heads have been so arranged that each subject is preceded and followd by the most nearly allied subjects, and thus added convenience is secured both in catalogs and on shelves; e. g. Building (690) follows Mechanic trades (680) at the end of Useful arts, and Architecture follows near the beginning of Fine arts.

The student of Biology (570) finds fossil life or Paleontology (560) before, and vegetable life or Botany (580) after, this followd in turn by animal life or Zoology (590), ending with Mammals (599); while Useful arts (600) begin with human Anatomy (611) under Medicin, thus giving a regular progression from the fossil plant thru the vegetable and animal kingdoms to the living man.

Coordination. Theoretically, the division of every subject into just 10 heads is absurd. Practically, it is desirable that classification be as minute as possible, without use of added figures; and the decimal principle, on which our scheme hinges, allows 10 divisions as readily as less.

This principle has proved wholly satisfactory in practice, tho apparently destroying proper coordination in some places. In the full classification this difficulty is entirely obviated by the use of another figure, giving nine sub-sections to any subject of sufficient importance to warrant closer subdivision. In history, where classification is made chiefly by countries, a single figure is added, as in the other classes, to give a tenfold geografic division. Wherever naught followd by another figure is added, it indicates a division into periods.

As all history is by countries, and as close geografic subdivisions are needed for local history and various other uses, the rule is whenever the same number is subdivided both geografically and by periods, to insert naught before the time or period figure; the 0 showing a change from geografic to period division, e. g. 942.05 England in time of the Tudors.

As in every scheme, many minor subjects are under general heads to which they do not strictly belong. In some cases, these heads are printed in a distinctiv type; e. g. 429 Anglo-Saxon, under English philology. The rule has been to assign these subjects to the most nearly allied heads, or where it was thought they would be most useful.

Catch-titles. In naming heads, strict accuracy has often been sacrificed to brevity, for short familiar titles seemd more important than that the heads given should express with fulness and exactness the character of all books catalogd under them.

Form distinctions. The classification is mainly by subject or content regardless of form; but a form distinction for general treatises, which is found practically useful, is introduced at the beginning of the class, where the first numerals would otherwise be unused. These form distinctions apply only to general treatises, which, without them, would have a class number ending in two naughts.

Thus, in Science there are many compends, dictionaries, essays, periodicals, and societies, treating of Science in general, and so having 0 for the division figure, but treating it under different forms, and, therefore, divided into sections according to this form: 501 for philosofy or theories of Science, 502 for compends, 503 for dictionaries. This treatment is as nearly as practicable uniform in all classes. Brewer's Reader's handbook is 803, the first figure being 8 because the book is clearly on literature; the second figure 0, because limited to no division of class 8; and the third figure 3, because the book is a dictionary.

Mnemonics. Arrangement of heads has been sometimes modified to secure mnemonic aid in numbering and finding books without the index; thus China has always the number 1. In Ancient history, it has the first section, 931; in Modern history, under Asia, it has 951. Similarly the Indian number is 4; Egyptian, 2; English, 2; German, 3; French, 4; Italian, 5; Spanish 6; European, 4; Asian, 5; African, 6; North American, 7; South American, 8; and so for all divisions by languages or countries. Italian 5, for instance, is in 035, 055, 065, 450, 850, 945, and many others. This mnemonic principle is specially prominent in Philology and Literature, and their divisions, and in form distinctions used in the first nine sections of each class. Philosofy, methods, or theory occurring as a head is always 1; dictionaries and cyclopedias, 3; essays, 4; periodicals, 5; associations, institutions, and societies, 6; education, 7; polygrafy or collections, 8; history, 9. In numerous cases several minor heads are groupt together as Other, always numberd 9.

While Italian is always 5, 5 is by no means always Italian. Grammar is 5, Periodicals are 5, Asia is 5, Oratory is 5, etc. Even were it possible, to limit 5 to Italian would waste numbering material, and results would not justify cost. The purpose is to give practical aid, not to follow a fanciful theory. A cataloger marking a German grammar, remembers that all Philology begins with 4, and, as German is always 3 and grammar 5, he knows the number must be 435. Italian (5), poetry (1), is as plainly 851 with no danger of being mistaken for "poetry of grammar" or "theory of Asia," because the numbers also have that meaning. This feature is an aid, not the regular method, and in all doubtful cases one refers at once to index or tables. Suggested difficulties are usually creations of ingenious theorists and not an outgrowth of practical experience in using this plan.

Wherever practicable, this mnemonic principle is used in subdividing sections. 558, Geology of South America, is subdivided by adding the sections of 980, History of South America. Geology of Brazil then must be 558.1: mnemonicly the first 5 means Science; the second 5, Geology; 8, South America; 1, Brazil. Any library attendant or regular user of the scheme recognizes 558.1 at a glance as Geology of Brazil This mnemonic feature is of great practical utility in numbering and finding books without catalog or index, and in determining the character of any book simply from its call number. The advantage of mnemonic correspondence has however never outweighd any claim of greater usefulness. In many cases choice between numbers was hardly perceptible; e. g. whether in Philology the order should be French, Spanish, Italian, or French, Italian, Spanish. In such cases, preference was given to mnemonic numbers, and 20 years' experience has now proved this wisest.

Relativ subject index. Following the tables is the most important feature of the system, an alfabetic index of all the heads, which refers by class number to the exact place of each in the preceding tables.

The index might be made on any of the various dictionary plans. The simplest was however chosen. Only short heads are given with a brief indication in doubtful cases of the point of view taken in assigning the class number.

This index is designd to guide both in numbering and in finding books. In assigning numbers, the most specific head that will contain the book having been determind, reference to that head in the Index gives the class number which should be assignd. Conversely, in finding books on any given subject, reference to the Index gives the number under which they are to be sought on the shelves, in the shelf list, or in the subject catalog. Whenever a subject not in this index comes up, it should be lookt up in the full index so that the classification may be uniform with that of other users.

The index aims to give similar or synonymous words, and the same words in different connections, so that any person of intelligence will hardly fail to get the right number. A reader wishing to know something of the tariff looks under T, and, at a glance, finds 337 as its class-number. This guides him to the shelves, to all the books and pamflets, to the shelf list, to the subject catalog on cards, to the index of books charged at the loan desk, and, in short, in simple numeric order, thruout the whole library to anything bearing on the subject. If he turns to the tables, he will see that it means class 3, Sociology; division 3, Political economy; section 7, Protection and free trade; but the number alone is enough to classify the book or to find it, for either cataloger or reader. If he had lookt under P for protection, or F for free trade, or D for duties, or C for customs, or under any other leading word relating to his subject, he would still have been referd to 337.

Had he lookt for "railroad" he would have found after it 13 separate entries, each preceded by a catchword indicating the phase of the subject in the scheme. A book on railroads may be a treatise on the desirability of government ownership, control, etc., and then is clearly a question of social science; or it may be a practical handbook for an employee explaining business methods of railroading, running trains, handling freight, etc., when it is as clearly one of the useful arts. The cataloger knows to which of these heads his book belongs, and the reader knows which phase of the subject he wishes to examin. Moreover, the 3 and 6 beginning the numbers indicate clearly the character of each class. But even if the significance of these figures were entirely disregarded, no confusion would result; for, on consulting either of the numbers in the catalog, in the tables or on the shelves, the difference would be clearly seen.

What the relativ index includes. This index includes also, as far as found, all synonyms or alternativ names for the heads, and many other entries that seemd likely to help a reader find his subject readily. Tho the user knows just where to turn to his subject in the tables, if he consults the index he may be sent also to other allied subjects; where he will find valuable matter which he would otherwise overlook.

Most names of countries, towns, animals, plants, etc. have been omitted, the Index containing only those which are in the tables; e. g. it can not enumerate all the species of trilobites, but when the classifier has found from the proper reference books that Remopleurides is a trilobite, the index will send him to 565 and he can classify his monograf on that subject.

Relativ location. Economy and simplicity calld not only for the subject index, but also for some plan of consolidating the two sets of marks heretofore used; the one telling of what subject a book treats, the other where the book was shelvd. By relativ location and decimal class numbers, the simple arabic numbers have been made to tell of each book and pamflet, both what it is, and where it is.

In arranging books on the shelves, absolute location by shelf and book number is wholly abandond, relativ location by class and book number being one of the most valuable features of the plan.[1] In finding books, the class and book numbers on the backs are followd, the upper being the class and the lower the book number. (See p. 17, Book numbers.) The class is found in its numeric order among the classes, just as the shelf is found in the ordinary system. Shelves are not numberd, as increase of different departments, opening of new rooms, and any arrangement of classes to bring books most circulated nearest the delivery desk, will at different times bring different class numbers on any given shelf. New books, as receivd, are numberd and put in place, in the same way that new titles are added to the card catalog.

Not only do all the books on any given subject stand together, no additions or changes ever separating them, but the most nearly allied subjects precede and follow, they in turn being preceded and followd by other allied subjects, as far as practicable. Readers not having access to the shelves find short titles arranged in the same order in the shelf list, and full titles, imprints, subject and cross references, notes, etc. in the subject catalog.

Parts of sets, and books on the same or allied subjects, are never separated as they are sure to be, sooner or later, in every library arranged on the old plan, unless the great and needless expense of frequent rearrangement and recataloging be incurd. In this system both class and book numbers remain unchanged thru all changes of shelving, buildings, or arrangement.

Among hundreds of points raisd by librarians, as to its practical workings and usefulness, the only one in which it is not shown to be equal or superior to the old systems is that in this relativ location a book which this year stands, for instance, at the end of a certain shelf, may not be on that shelf at all another year, because of uneven growth of the parts of the library. This slight objection, however, inheres in any system where books are arranged by subjects, rather than by shelves, windows, doors, and similar non-intellectual distinctions.

Sizes on shelves. Most libraries have abandond close distinction of sizes. It is true that this distinction saves a little space, but at far too great a cost; for every distinction of sizes makes a parallel classification. If books are groupt in five sizes, one must look in five places before he can be sure of having seen all the books on a given subject.

It is better to shelve octavos and all smaller books together in one series, and arrange in parallel libraries only quartos and folios, which are too large to stand on the regular shelves, showing the series in which any oversize book is put, by a size letter prefixt to the book number; e. g. 749 qB, to show that book B on Artistic furniture is too large for the regular shelves, and so is placed in the "q" or quarto series. Another way is to use a wood or pasteboard dummy, to show the location of a book not in its regular place. But, however solvd, there is no conflict between the size problem and the Decimal classification. (See also Library notes no. 11, vol. 3, p. 428–29.)

CATALOGS

Any system of catalogs may be used with this scheme. But the two essentials of even the simplest system are the author (or preferably name) catalog and the shelf list. The chief use of the system for catalogs is for the shelf list and for the clast catalog on cards.

Name catalog. In the name catalog on cards, arranged strictly by names of authors and of persons or places written about, the class number holds a subordinate place, yet is constantly useful. If printed, it appears in a single colum as in the relativ index, and, where there is no subject catalog, one can rapidly pick out the books on any desired topic by glancing down the colum for the class number wanted.

Shelf list. The class number makes the list the most useful form of brief subject catalog. Each page gives in colums accession number, author's name, and brief title of every book in the library on the specific subject bearing that class number.

Subject catalog. In the card catalog of subjects the classification is mapt out above the cards by projecting guides, making reference almost instantaneous. Subjects are arranged in the 1, 2, 3 order of their decimal subject numbers exactly as in the classification tables, and the cards of each subject are then further arranged alfabetically by authors.

The printed subject catalog on this plan is also the most compact and satisfactory in use. Under each class number are given the resources of the library on that subject, the heading giving for convenience the name as well as the number of the subject; e. g. "513 Geometry." General notes are printed in finer type under general heads, and an index at the end shows where to open the book to find any topic. As class numbers are put in place of page numbers, this index serves for any catalog, list or library arranged on this plan.

Dictionary catalog. A dictionary card catalog may be as readily used with this system as with any other, but its advantages are largely supplied by the subject index, which is in itself a skeleton dictionary catalog. If however the subject card catalog is clast, the alfabetic index referring to class numbers makes the single set of cards serve both as clast and dictionary catalog. Instead of giving the book titles under each head, the index number refers to all those titles simply and directly.

The advantages of the dictionary and clast catalogs are therefore united, not by mingling them together, and so losing much of the simplicity of one and as much of the excellence of the other, but by really using both, each with its own merits.

SUGGESTIONS TO USERS

In referring to tables, hold the book in the right hand and turn with the left. The class numbers then show very plainly on the left margin and reference is greatly expedited. Some prefer to hold the book in the left hand, but in any case the eye should follow the left margins wholly.

Numeration. In thinking or speaking of the class numbers, to avoid confusion always divide at the decimal point, and name it; e. g. read 942.9, "nine forty-two, point nine," never "ninety-four twenty-nine." If "point" were omitted the ear might readily interpret 270.2 as 272, while "two seventy, point two" can never be misunderstood.

Number of figures used in class number. In very small collections two figures might do till growth required further division; but it is economy, and saves handling the books a second time to use at least three figures at first, even in the smallest collection.

Whether there are one or 1,000 books on any topic, they take no more space on the shelves if clast minutely, and the work is done once for all. When large accessions come, even if a century later, this number will not have to be alterd. A library having only 20 books on economics should use the full scheme, for the whole 20 would go on a single shelf, and take no more room, and the index would refer more accurately to what was wanted. The number of books you have on any subject has in this system no special weight. In a relativ location, any number of consecutiv topics without a book yet in them, waste no space on shelves or in catalogs; the numbers are merely skipt. This plan not only does no harm, but has the considerable negativ value that looking for the number and finding it blank or skipt, shows that you have nothing on the subject, —a piece of information second in value only to finding something, for one need no longer search.

The practical objection to close classing is that it gives a longer number to charge in a lending library. In a reference library full sub-sections should be used. Where a short number is imperativ, it is well to give the full class number on another part of the book plate, not to be used in charging, but as a guide to the contents of the book. Thus when a classifier has once examind a book, and found out just what it is about, the record is preservd for the benefit of others.

Familiarity with tables. Get a general knowledge of the scheme by learning the 10 main classes (you will soon know the 100 divisions also without special study), so that you can tell to what subject a given number belongs from its first figure without referring to the tables. Specific knowledge of subdivisions will come gradually, but rapidly, from use. Using the tables alone, and then always verifying your result by the index, you will more rapidly acquire knowledge of the classification and facility in its use. To do this decide first to which of the 10 classes the subject belongs; next, take that class as if there were no other, and decide to which of its 10 divisions the subject belongs; then, in the same way, select section and sub-section, thus running down your topic in its grooves, which become tenfold narrower at each step.

Use of index. As a check against error, use the index freely even tho familiar with the scheme.

By consulting the index of the complete classification, subjects omitted in this abridgment will be found assignd with allied subjects to the proper head. Reference to this full subject index will decide at once most doubtful points, and no topics omitted from the abridged tables and index should be numberd without such reference, as otherwise great annoyance may result from finding that the number used conflicts with that on the great mass of printed and ms catalogs, cards, indexes and other bibliografic aids arranged by this system.

Subject of a book. To determin the subject of a book consult: —

1 The title, since it is generally chosen to show what the book is about. But, as many titles are misleading, never class from title alone, but always examin also

2 Table of contents, which is the best guide to the true subject. If there is no table of contents read

3 Headings of chapters, or marginal topics.

4 Preface. Unless already certain, glance thru this to catch the author's point of view, and verify impressions gaind from title and contents.

5 Reference books. If preceding means fail, consult reliable bibliografies, clast and annotated catalogs, biografic dictionaries, histories of literature, cyclopedias, reviews, etc., for information about the character of the book.

6 Subject-matter. If the five shorter methods above fail, examin the subject matter of the book itself, and if still in doubt, to avoid mistakes, put aside on an "under consideration" shelf till you can examin more thuroly or consult

7 Specialists. Experts, competent to define their true subject and relation, are usually glad to examin any new books in their departments enough to class them. Old ones they know where to put already.

After deciding what the book is about, find this subject in the tables, either thru the index or by using the tables directly, which for the beginner is a longer process, seldom to be trusted without subsequent reference to the index; e. g. Pollock's Land laws might naturally be clast from the tables alone as "333, Land; ownership; rights; rent," which seems exactly to fit this book. The index, however, shows two numbers, both referring to land laws, but from different points of view; viz, 347, legal, and 333, economic. The object of this book, as seen in the preface, is to give a popular presentation of English statutes pertaining to land-holding, not to discuss the history and theory of land laws from the economist's point of view; and it should be clast "347, Realty," which might have been missed but for the index.

Assigning class numbers. 1 Practical usefulness is the chief thing. Put each book under the subject to the student of which it is most useful, unless local reasons "attract" it to a place still more useful in your library. See p. 16, § 7.

2 The content or the real subject of which a book treats, and not the form or the accidental wording of the title, determins its place. Following this rule, put a philosofy of art with Art, not with Philosofy; a history of mathematics with Mathematics, not with History; for philosofy or history is simply the form which these books have taken. Their true content or subject is Art or Mathematics, and to the student of these subjects they are most useful.

3 Always remember that the question is not where one would probably look to find a particular book, but under what subject is the book of greatest value; e. g. it is of little consequence whether "one would be apt to look" under 595 for Darwin's Formation of vegetable mould, but of much consequence that one studying earthworms should find that book in "595 Worms," since it is chiefly valuable as a study of the habits of earthworms. Any one wanting that special book should look for it in the name catalog under Darwin.

4 Assign every book to the most specific head that will contain it. This will vary in different libraries according to the number of figures used, e. g. the specific head for "compulsory vaccination" in the full tables is 614.4738; but in a library using only three figures, the most specific number possible is 614, which includes everything on public health.

If there are only 10 books on a given subject it is useful to have them still farther groupt by topics or form of treatment, for otherwise, they have only accidental order which is of service to no one. If a reader wishes a specific subject, he is sent instantly to the exact place by the subject index; if, however, he wishes a specific book, he should go, not to the shelves, but to the name catalog, where he can find its place quickest. If he wishes to study the library's resources at the shelves, he will be greatly helpt by close classing.

A library recently adopted the plan of putting all books of a division together, if they had but few; e. g. all mathematical works were markt 510. It took just as many figures, cost just as much labor in most cases, and, if a man wanted the one calculus in the whole library, he had to search through the 150 volumes in 510, when otherwise he would instantly have found it standing alone as 517.

A teacher showing his pupils the material on any subject, if there are only 20 books, would surely put together those covering the same points, even if there were but two. Much more should librarians group closely their greater collections, that readers may gain something of the advantages of an experienced guide.

This gives every specialist his own distinct library. If a student of science in general, he is sent to class 5; if his department be zoology, his library is 59; if his specialty is shells, he finds all works and references on that subject in library 594. Whether a specialist needs it or not, every subject being a library by itself shows resources and wants as no catalog can show them. A catalog can not be made to take satisfactorily the place of handling books themselves. This advantage weighs most in a college or society library, where many go to the shelves; but even if librarians only are admitted, close classification is worth its cost in the added power it gives.

5 The predominant tendency or obvious purpose of a book usually decides its class number at once. Still a book often treats of two or more different subjects. In such cases assign it to the place where it will be most useful, and make references under all subordinate subjects. Give these reference numbers both on book plate and subject card, as well as on reference cards.

It is one of the markt advantages of the plan that these references, notes, etc., may be added from time to time as found convenient. It is necessary at first to find only the predominating tendency of the book in order to classify it. Subject references are added whenever found necessary.

Add these numbers indicating more closely the character of the book as rapidly as possible, and invite all specialists to call the librarian's attention to every desirable subject reference noticed in their reading. These numbers take little room, are easily added, and in most cases are very valuable.

6 If two subjects have distinct page limitations, class under the first, and make analytic reference under the second. But if the second is decidedly more important or much greater in bulk, class under that, with reference under the first. Always put a book under the first subject, unless there is good reason for entering it under another.

7 Consider not only the scope and tendency of each book, but also the nature and specialties of each library.

Any subject of which a library makes a specialty naturally "attracts" allied subjects. This influence is strongest in minute classification. To admit this variation, many subjects in the present scheme have two or more places, according to these different sides; e. g. a book on school hygiene, which a medical library puts under 613, has also a place in 371, where the educational specialist requires it.

8 If a book treats of a majority of the sections of any division, give it the division number, instead of the most important section number with subject references. Unless some one section is so prominently treated as to warrant placing the book in it, class a book on four or more sections under the division number; e. g. class a volume on light, heat, and sound, under the head most fully discust, and refer to it from the others; but if it treats also of mechanics, class as 530, or general physics, tho no mention be made of hydrostatics, pneumatics, electricity, magnetism, or molecular physics.

9 To secure uniformity, make notes for future reference of all difficulties and decisions; for it is even more important to put books on the same subject together than to put them in the absolutely correct place. These notes should be written either on the broad margins of the classification tables, or on an interleavd copy, or on standard-size slips arranged by class numbers, like the clast catalog. (See also p. 23, Index rerums.)

10 Keep collected works, libraries, etc. together, and assign them like individual books to the most specific head that will contain them; or assign to the most prominent of the various subjects on which they treat, with subject references from the others; or separate and class the parts as independent works.

This last practice constantly grows in favor, and many librarians now largely disregard uniform bindings and "series" lettering, and, unless contents of volumes are so connected that they can not be separated, class each under the most specific head that will contain it.

11 Class translations, reviews, keys, analyses, answers, and other books about specific books with the original book, as being there most useful.

Book numbers. With this abridged classification the following rough alfabetic arrangement of books in each class by author's surnames is recommended:

Keep together names beginning with the same letter by marking books by the first author under any letter with the initial of the author's surname; books by the second author under that letter with the author's initial followd by 1. Use the same initial and figure for all books by the same author in any one class, and distinguish different books by adding lower-case letters. E. g. if in class 942, History of England, the first books under G were Green's History of the English people, Gardiner's Outline of English history, Guizot's History of England and Green's Short history of the English people, and were receivd in the order named, the book number of Green's History would be G, Gardiner's Outline would be G1, Guizot's History G2, and of Green's Short history Ga.

In order to keep lives of the same person together book numbers in individual biografy should be assignd from the name of the person written about instead of from name of writer. These biografies are markt B and arranged in a single alfabetic series.

For fiction, omit the class number altogether and alfabet by authors' surnames. Both fiction and biografy should be numberd by the author table devised by C: A. Cutter, and different books by the same author distinguisht by adding a, b, c, etc. to the Cutter number.

For a full discussion of book numbers see Library notes no. 11, which is wholly given up to an explanation and tables of the systems which have been found most useful.

VARIATIONS PRACTICABLE IN ADJUSTING TO SPECIAL LOCAL REQUIREMENTS

Some users assume that adoption of the Decimal classification and relativ index carries with it other parts of the general system which the author has used at Amherst, Wellesley, or Columbia colleges or in the New York state library. In fact, the plan in each of these libraries differs somewhat from all the others, and many of the more than 300 libraries now using this system have adopted still other variations ; for the special constituency, circumstances, and resources of each library must be considerd in deciding what is best for it. This decision should be made by one familiar, not only with the library and its needs, but also with all methods of any merit and the comparativ ease and cost of introducing them into any given library.

Cautions. Having decided to adopt the system in its decimal form as workt out and printed, it must be determind whether to adopt certain variations, noted in 1–4 below as practicable, and in some cases useful and desirable. The inexperienced user is very likely to feel entirely competent, after once reading the tables (in fact, without reading more than a single page regardless of its bearings on hundreds of other places, and without so much as looking at the author's explanations), to institute a series of "improvements." Experience proves that nothing could be more disastrous. It seems a simple matter to put a topic a line higher or lower, but in some cases this may affect over 100 different entries in the index, and there is no possible way to be sure of correcting them except by examining each of thousands of heads. Any changes except as authorized under the next heads, would conflict with the full tables, so that closer classification, if required later by the growth of the library, could be made only by changing whole numbers instead of by simply adding extra figures. Care has been taken that no number in this short form should vary from that in the full tables ; e. g. instead of printing as the number for Ireland only 941.5, the numbers 941.6–.9 are given for the different groups of counties, just as in the full tables. If the numbers for these counties were designated by adding figures to 941.5, the closer classification would be omitted in this edition, for small libraries are not likely to have enough on Ireland to make subdivision necessary. But if the books on the various Irish counties were all numberd 941.5 the number would disagree with those on all printed catalog cards and cooperativ lists and, if the change to full class numbers should ever be made, the last figure on every book and on every record of that book would have to be alterd, while nothing would have been gaind originally in brevity.

Frequently proposed changes, carefully studied out and submitted as improvements, are shown by our old records to have been adopted and used in the exact form proposed, till considerations which had not been foreseen forced us to change to the form as printed. Even after years of experience one is not safe in pronouncing on an apparent improvement without consulting the voluminous records of previous experiments. Even those who have used the system longest have sometimes been misled into adopting changes which on trial they were compeld to reject, going back to the original form at the cost and confusion of two changes.

The user who adopts the printed form avoids the criticism sure to be aimd at any possible scheme. The moment he makes one "improvement" he must defend all the heads or alter them to suit each critic. Much time is saved by saying that the scheme is used as printed, and blunders are the author's, not the user's. The cooperation of those interested is invited in eliminating any errors found either in tables or index.

The following brief notes show the most important variations found practicable in the "relativ index system," oftener called the "Decimal or Dewey system."

1 Letter notations for changes. To protect other users from confusion, the publishers insist, as the copyright entitles them to, that these numbers shall not be printed with changed meanings without some clear indication of the fact in the number itself. If the reasons that led us to adopt the form printed are not conclusiv to another, we wish to remove any obstacles to his use of the system with such changes as shall satisfy him. This can be readily done by using a letter, or some other character than the 10 digits, to mark changes, e. g., if you wish a different set of subdivisions under 630, make it out to suit, and number it 63a, 63b, 63c, etc. It will arrange in its exact place and exact order without difficulty, and no other user of the system will be confused by the numbers. In the index, cancel the 1, 2, 3, etc., you have discarded, and write in the a, b, c, etc., adopted. Whenever you use our exact numbers, use also our meanings for them exactly as indext. If you wish to change a head from one place to another, cancel it where it stands, and leave that number blank in the tables. Then insert the head in its new place by the use of a letter instead of the figure omitted as above, as if it had never been in the tables.

This plan of introducing letters or other symbols wherever each user pleases, will give all needed freedom to the personal equation and desire for originality, and meets all real wants for peculiar classification in peculiar cases.

Fiction and juvenils. In some cases it is usually best to modify class numbers by letters as above. In popular libraries half the circulation is often fiction. A great saving is effected here by omitting the class number entirely, as directed in these abridged tables, and using merely the book number, it being understood that no class number means fiction. After fiction, their great circulation makes juvenils a good place to economize, if they are kept separate. The books are clast exactly as if for adults, then a J is prefixt to show their special character. This gives J alone as the class number for juvenil fiction, and J942, for a child's history of England. These are then arranged in a parallel library by themselves, so that J942 comes between J941, juvenil history of Scotland, and J943, juvenil history of Germany.

If at any time it seems desirable to abandon the separate J library, it can be done without altering a number, by distributing the J books among the regular classes, either ignoring the J entirely, or preferably by putting all the J books by themselves at the end of each class number.

There are thus three methods: 1, to have a separate J library; 2, to have the J books by themselves at the end of each class number; 3, to have the J books in alfabetic order among other books on the same subject. In this last case the J is useful only to call attention plainly to their juvenil character.

The same marking is used for all these plans, and one can be changed into the other by simply distributing the books the other way, and telling the attendants that it has been done. Juvenil books go with adult books of the same class, unless a special J library is made containing all juvenils.

Biografy. Similarly it is recommended that the large class of individual biografy, as to the best treatment of which there is great difference of opinion, should be markt B in place of the subject number. See p. 15, Book numbers; and tables "920 Biografy."

Instead of the plan printed in the tables, biografy may be distributed as far as possible among the subjects it illustrates, leaving, of course, under B lives not bearing specially on any subject; e. g. all lives of musicians go under 780 and its subdivisions, the life of Wagner being 782. Even in this arrangement it is better to indicate that it is biografy, putting B before the class number; i. e. mark Wagner's life B782. (See also Book numbers, p. 17.)

Parallel libraries. This treatment of fiction, juvenils, and biografy illustrates the principle of parallel libraries. Its other chief application is for reference and language collections. Some libraries have a constituency not reading English, and so need a parallel library in German, or Swedish, or French, etc. This is most easily made by simply prefixing the initial of the language to the class number. The German parallel library is made by simply putting all G's together and arranging by class numbers. This plan has proved very satisfactory in actual use.

To separate books most needed for reference, mark R before class numbers, and arrange the books together, as an R library. When the books are to go into the general collection again, a line can be drawn thru this letter. In the same way it often happens that a general private library is given on condition that it be kept together; e. g, the Phœnix library of Columbia college. This has P prefixt to the class number, and thus is a parallel library by itself. An initial is better in such cases than a * or similar mark, since the initial helps the memory and is just as brief. The same plan applies, of course, if the library has an "inferno" for books not used without permits, or more distant rooms where books worth keeping but seldom calld for can be arranged in a parallel storage library.

Combining language and literature. The same principle can be applied also in combining each language with its literature, if it is preferd to abolish the class, Philology, and make it simply an appendix to Literature. The reverse would hold true if a philologist wisht to abolish Literature and make it an appendix to Philology; e. g. using 82p for English philology, and adding philology subdivisions, English dictionaries would become 82p3, English grammars 82p5, etc., and arrange either just before or just after English literature, 820, 821, etc. For a better plan see below, Broken order.

2 Broken order. Another common and often desirable variation for shelf arrangement is to break the sequence of the numbers, in order to get books most used nearest the delivery desk. The strict theory is to keep the whole 1000 numbers in exact sequence; but a higher rule to be obeyd everywhere is to sacrifice any theory for a substantial gain. Practically it will seldom happen that it is not best to break the order of the classes. Often divisions are best arranged out of numeric place; e. g. 520 Astronomy may be wanted in a room accessible at night; fiction, juvenils, and biografy are always wanted near the delivery desk in a public library, and in strict order are as likely to come at the most distant point. Various local reasons may make a broken order desirable. There need be no hesitation in adopting it if enough is gaind, but there should be charts clearly showing where each division starts; e. g. after 430 "Preceding 830;" after 520 "In observatory." The rule is to specify where books may be found that have been entirely removed from the general library arrangement. The page of 100 divisions is reprinted on cards with wide margins for just this use. Opposit each division is markt its beginning on the shelves, and it is easy to vary the order as much as necessary, tho of course the nearer the divisions run in regular order 1 to 99, the easier it is for a stranger to find his way about. Wherever variations from the printed order are made, a wood or cardboard dummy in the regular place should have markt on its side the present location of the subject removed; e. g. "491 will be found preceding 891."

This broken-order plan is best for bringing together the philology and literature of each language without altering numbers or prefixing any letter. Let 420 be shelvd just ahead of 820, 430 ahead of 830, and so for all languages, making the general note that all 400's are shelvd just ahead of the corresponding 800's.

3 Pro and con division of topics. In many cases it is very useful to separate the books on a topic with strongly markt sides, so that either set of views and arguments may be seen by itself; e. g. 337, Protection and Free Trade. The number alone may be used for general works, giving facts, etc., and advocates and opponents may be separated by + and — for positiv and negativ, or by p and c, the initials for pro and con, words which, tho short, are too long for a circulating library to charge. In reference libraries, on cards, etc., most will prefer to write out pro and con, to distinguish the two groups. The order on the shelves is, of course, alfabetic, viz 337, 337^{c}, 337^{p}; or if + and — are used, the usual order is followd: +, —. These letters or signs should be written above or prefixt to the class number, not written 337c, 337—, etc., for the space at the end should be left free for other figures, if decided later to class more closely.

4 Unassignd numbers. The one and two figure numbers 1–99 are available for special uses without confusion with tables or index, for initial 0 is printed in the tables and index for all numbers before 100. In classification it sometimes happens that the first two figures are obvious at a glance, but time must be taken to determin the third. It is convenient to write these first figures, but if a mathematical book receives its first two figures (51), this unfinisht number is liable to be confused with the two-figure number 51. This danger may be largely avoided by writing the decimal point after a blank; e. g. 51 ., to show that a figure is omitted.

These four notes suggest the range of variations that may be made in the Decimal classification and illustrate its adaptability to widely different conditions. For book numbers which decide the order of material after it is groupt into its final classes, see page 17 and Library notes no. 11.

OTHER USES

Tho the system was devised for library catalog and shelf arrangement, 38 years' use has developt many new applications; but the essential character of the plan has remaind unchanged from the first. Nearly every administrativ department feels directly the great economy, and in every field of literary activity this classification has been found a labor-saving tool, whose practical usefulness has exceeded the most sanguin hopes of its early friends.

Bookstores. The plan is a great convenience to both dealers and customers, when applied to the miscellaneous stock of a bookstore. Very often a much-wanted book, specially if not recently publisht, is reported "not in stock," when such an arrangement by subjects would have reveald its place at once. Specialists often find on the shelves books that they would never have orderd, but are glad to buy after examination. Experience proves it a profitable thing for a dealer to arrange his books so that each person may find those in which he is interested without examining the entire stock.

Scrap books. The plan has proved of great service in preserving newspaper clippings. Scrap sheets of uniform size are used, with the class number of the subject written in the upper corner of the front edge of the page, and clippings are mounted on the sheet as in a common scrap-book. When one sheet is full, another is inserted at the exact place. Thus perfect classification is kept up without blank sheets, and at the smallest outlay of money and trouble. This "L. B. scrap book" is for most persons the best form. These sheets are then arranged numerically like the subject card catalog, the sheets of each class being farther arranged, when desirable, under alfabetic subheads. Scraps thus mounted are shelvd either in manila pamflet cases or in patent binders.

Index rerums. These are best made on the standard P size (7.5 x 12.5 cm), card or slip. Long study and experience prove that the stock L200[a] is best for private indexes, etc. It costs only half as much as the Br 400,[a] which is largely used for public library catalogs, takes only half the room, and gives great satisfaction.

Where durability and convenience of handling are less important than the strictest economy, common heavy writing paper may be used; but most novices greatly diminish the usefulness of the card system by using ordinary machine-cut cards or slips which vary in hight so much as to make quick and accurate manipulation impossible. The extreme variation that should be tolerated is 1 millimeter or $\frac{1}{25}$ in. This will be understood by placing a 7.4 cm card between two 7.5 cm cards. The fingers make a bridge across the taller cards and the lower one is missed entirely in rapid turning. Cards must be cut by accurate gages or they will lose half their value, and in many cases make it necessary to recopy the material at a cost tenfold greater than to have thrown away the imperfectly cut cards or slips.

The class number is written in the upper left corner, any alfabetic subject head follows at the right, and notes fill the card below. The cards are then filed in order of class numbers like the subject card catalog, the cards of each class being farther arranged, as in case of the scrap sheets, according to any alfabetic subheads. Scores of devices for convenient handling and storing of these slips and of scrap sheets and pamflets are already manufactured. Details will be found in the full descriptiv and illustrated catalog.

Another admirable form is similar to the L. B. scrap-book or shelf list; in fact, it is simply a shelf list without the printed head and colum lines. The subject number goes in the upper corner, and all notes on that subject are written on the sheet below. This book fits an ordinary shelf, has the advantage of a full letter page in sight at once, and holds over five times as much as the postal card. Of course the system can be applied to slips or sheets of any size, but there are literally hundreds of accessories and conveniences exactly adapted to these two sizes, which are used tenfold more than all others combined; so it is folly for one to begin on another size, and lose the advantages of this uniformity. If intermediate sizes must be had, the ones most used and least objectionable are Note, 12.5, x 20 cm, and Magazine, 17.5 x 25 cm. There are repeated cases where users of some other size have finally found it profitable to change to either the Postal, 7.5 x 12.5, or to the Letter, 20 x 25 cm, even at the cost of rewriting many notes.

Note books are best in this last described form. The much poorer method is to take a bound blank book, and assign the class numbers in order, giving about the space it is thought each will require, and, when the pages so assignd are full, note at the bottom of the page where the subject is continued. This has all the objections of the old fixt location as compared with the relativ, and will hardly be adopted by any person who has ever seen the simplicity and economy of the shelf-list system.

Topical indexes. The class numbers are used in indexing books read, usually by making the entries in the index rerum under proper numbers. The number takes the place of a series of words, and the results can be handled, arranged, and found much quicker because of the simple numerals.

The advantages of the system for making topical indexes of collected works, periodicals, transactions, etc. are evident. These consolidated indexes may be arranged together with the card catalog of the books, or by themselves, as seems best in each case.

It would exceed the limits of this brief description to notice all the varied applications of the system. Enough have been mentiond to show its wide adaptability to the wants of the librarian and the student.

Library and sale catalogs

Catalogs of any special subject, whether subject, author, or dictionary, go under its subject number, in 016, which is the ruling heading wherever it conflicts with another. 017-019 therefore includes only catalogs of general collections, limited to no one class or subject.

018 Author catalogs See 011 for Bibliografies.

A volume containing both author and subject catalogs is more useful in 017. 018 includes accession, chronologic, and any other forms (except subject and dictionary) of catalogs of collections.

The trustees build and furnish (022); make rules for government and service (023), and regulations for readers (024); but the administration involves questions of its own, which, however, are closely allied to topics in 021-024 and elsewhere; e. g. the librarian must know his side of binding, and be able to give proper directions and supervision, but need not know all the details of the binder's craft (686).

Administration includes Supervision; Acquisition; Utilization; Preservation; i. e. the librarian's duty to books is to Get, Use, Keep.

026 Libraries on special subjects

Histories, reports, statistics, bulletins, handbooks, circulars, and everything about the library not more required in one of the sections above; e. g. a Medical library, a Chess library, but the catalog of a Chess library is 016.7; blanks, etc. from any library go in 025, as more used in studying topics; but, if history of individual libraries is specialized, duplicates are also desirable under the library in 026-027, thus making a complete set of its publications.

Left blank to be used (if preferd to prefixing an initial) for general collections of books which by terms of gift or for other cause must be kept together. This must be kept distinct from 040 where the individual books are polygrafic, i. e. are bound pamflets, essays, addresses, scrap or note books, etc., too general in scope to go under any single class. Juvenils could be put here, but are better kept in a separate class, markt J.

All other "public" schools, i. e. paid for from the public treasury, are groupt under 379. Besides schools, such topics as "American students in Europe" go naturally in 373 or, if the topic be "European universities," in 378. Peabody and Slater funds go in 373.

395 Etiquet

396 Woman's position and treatment
For Costumes, see 391; Biografy, 920.7.
If a special library about women is wisht, 396 is the best place for it. Suffrage, education, and employment can then be put here with references from 324, 376, 331, etc.; but it would be unwise to bring everything about women here, e. g. to remove 618, Diseases of women, from the rest of medicin. Books on woman in general go in 396.

397 Gipsies. Nomads. Outcast races
People without nationalities who do not coalesce with the ruling people among whom they live. This includes Gipsy language, which has no place in the linguistic groups of 400, as the Gipsy people have no place in the geografic divisions of history.

Philology

400 Philology. General works

In Philology the general works put under 400-419 deal almost entirely with the Indo-European languages. They are put here because they cover most of the divisions of this class, and in practice are most convenient here. Under 439, 479, and 489 are placed books limited to the Teutonic, Romance or Hellenic groups, and under 491 are placed only such general works as are specifically limited to the Indo-European group.

410-419 includes comparativ works in general and also those on the Indo-European group in general, but general and comparativ works on Teutonic group are 439; on Romance group 479; on Hellenic group 489. Everything about an individual language is put with that language.

421 Orthografy

See also this head treated in general grammars placed under 425.

422 Etymology. Derivation

422 is limited to derivation. For inflection, also called etymology, see 425.

423 Dictionaries. Idioms

Put a dictionary of two languages with the less known language. Under 423 put only English-English dictionaries. Put an English-French dictionary with French, 443; a French-Latin dictionary with Latin, 473. If in several languages, put with 413, or with least known. This plan brings together under each of the less known, all the dictionaries for translating either into or from that language. Some prefer to put each dictionary under the first language; i. e. that by which it is alfabeted. This gives under each language, regardless of its familiarity, all dictionaries for translating from it, but none for translating into it. These must be sought under the language from which the translation is to be made. For a cosmopolitan library this plan is simplest and best; but in an English library, the first plan, with only English dictionaries in 423, and both in and out dictionaries together under little known tongues is more convenient. References in either case show what may be found in the other place.

669 Metallurgy and assaying

History of metals goes here, not in 553, 622 nor 671.

670 Manufactures

Specific topics go where of most interest. These heads are for the general subject of metal, wood, etc., manufactures, and for such specific manufactures as are not of more interest elsewhere. But an account of a specific manufacture is commonly most useful with its own subject; e.g., a steam engine is certainly made of metal, but its manufacture should go under 621.1, not 672. The character of the library often decides the place of greatest interest. An agricultural library would prefer the manufacture and everything about wood churns with the dairy, 637, while a manufacturing library might prefer it with other wood manufactures in 674. A general library will incline to the special subject, as a more minute classification is thus obtaind, and references under 670 answer inquiries for all the library has on the subject of brass or rubber or paper manufactures. Whether groupt by use or material, if sought from the other standpoint, the references show the resources promptly. As a rule the use is the better classification. being more minute and oftener wanted. But if the uses are various the general head is better; e. g. bells are for scores of distinct uses, but their manufacture is a unit; but all churns are for the dairy.

RELATIV SUBJECT INDEX

HOW TO USE THIS INDEX

Find the subject wanted in its alfabetic place in the index. The number after it is its class number and refers to the place where the topic will be found, in numerical order of class numbers, on the shelves, shelf-lists or in the subject catalog, if used. All class numbers are decimal; e. g. 914.29 travel in Wales, comes before 914.3 travel in Germany, and both of them before 915 travel in Asia. Printed labels on the shelves or drawer fronts guide readily to the class number sought.

Under this class number will be found the resources of the library on the subject desired. Other adjoining subjects may often be profitably consulted; e. g. a description of Niagara Falls is wanted and the index refers to 917.47, but much on this topic is likely also to be found in 917.4 (travel in north Atlantic states) and even in 917.3 (travel in United States).

This index contains in a single alfabet all subjects named in the tables, together with their synonyms and such other topics as are thought most likely to be needed by libraries using this abridgment.

If nothing is found under a number, it shows that the library does not yet possess any book on that topic.

It does not include all names of places, minerals, plants, etc.; but gives only those used in these tables and a farther selection of the most common and useful. It is not a biografic dictionary, and gives no names of persons as biografic headings, but only such as appear in connection with some subject like literature or history.
